My Science workshop series for young journalists, multiple locations

The EU-funded My Science (‘My science European program for young journalists’) project is organizing a series of workshops for young journalists. Approximately 90 young journalists will have the chance to spend one week in one of several European research laboratories, where they will meet researchers, observe scientific experiments and improve their understanding of science. Individual workshops are the following:
- Information and Communication Technologies - University of Vienna, Austria, Institute for Scientific Computing (7 to 12 December 2009);
- Stem Cell and Nuclear Transfer Cloning Technologies - BioTalentum, Gödöllő, Hungary (25 to 30 January 2010);
- Renewable Energy - EuroGAIA Academy Bolzano (EURAC), Bozen, Italy, Institute of Renewable Energy (22 to 27 February 2010);
- Environment - EuroGAIA Academy Bolzano (EURAC), Bozen, Italy, Institute of Applied Remote Sensing (22 to 27 February 2010);
- Humanities - EuroGAIA Academy Bolzano (EURAC), Bozen, Italy, Institute of Minority Rights (22 to 27 February 2010);
- Chemical Technologies - Institute of Chemical Technology, Prague, Czech Republic (8 to 13 March 2010).

For further information, please visit:
http://www.my-science.eu/

Remarks: Application deadline: 15 July 2009

Category: Events
Data Source Provider: My Science project
Document Reference: Based on an event announcement
Programme or Service Acronym: FP7, FP7-CAPACITIES, FP7-SIS, FUTURE RESEARCH
Subject Index: Education, Training; Information, Media; Scientific Research

RCN: 30941
Publication date: 2009-04-29